The fourth anniversary of the G.A.R. Club. Boston, was celebrated by a large number of comrades on the evening of May 7. Geo. H. Innis presided over the business meeting. The Committee on Summer Onting prepared a program calling for a visit to Portland, Me., some time in July. The idea, which was adopted, proposes a trip to Portland by steamer, a visit to Peak's Island in the forenoon and an afternoon visit to Old Orchard Rock, returning to Boston by train late in the evening. After the meeting the comrades marched to the dininghall, where the evening was spent in discussing dinner and listening to speeches by Commanderin-Chief Joseph B. Maccabe, of the Sons of Veterans, Vice-President Charles S. Clarke, Maj. G. A. J. Colgan, Gen. J. H. Roberts, Commander-in-Chief of the Union Veterans' Union; President Innis, Commander Bigelow, Comrade Anthony, Adj't-Gen. Battelle, and others.

Patriotic Teaching in the Schools Indorsed by the Executive Committee-The Washington Soldiers and Sailors' Home-Gleanings from the Departments. NATIONAL WOMAN'S COUNCIL.

The Executive Committee of the National Woman's Council met in Philadelphia May 7 and 8 to arrange the program for the second triennial session to be held in Washington, February, 1895, date to be fixed later.

Seventeen National associations were represented, the last to enter being the National Association of Women Stenographers, organized in time for participation in the World's Fair ed to Joseph A. Arkle, Assistant Adjutant-Gen- | Congress. The Woman's Relief Corps was represented for the first time in its official capacity by National President Sarah C. Mink, Vice-President of the Council, ex-officio, and Kate B. Sherwood, delegate. News from the Various Divisions-Election

Important topics of general interest to women, including dress reform and divorce reform were discussed, and the attitude of the Council defined on these great questions. The gist of the decisions was that an effort be made to secure the appointment of women on State divorce commissions, and to offer a prize for a student's dress suitable for college girls and business women, which would allow free action of the body, escape the dust, and be suitable for a variety of materials.

A vote of thanks was sent Judge Jere Wilson, of Washington, for his just and able advocacy of the rights of women under the law and in the professions, before the courts of the National Capital.

PATRIOTISM IN THE SCHOOLS. The important stand taken by the Council on teaching patriotism in the schools was the great point of vital interest to the Grand Army and Relief Corps, and all patriots and patriotic associations of the United States. This subject had been presented by the Relief Corps representatives in the informal reports made before the Council of W.R.C. work, so that when the following resolution was offered by Kate B. Sherwood it was enthusiastically adopted without a dissenting vote. The line number remaining in good standing is 138 of programs for the Triennial session was agreed upon.

TEACHING PATRIOTISM. Whereas there is a manifest need for primary instruction in Constitutional Government in our public schools and of a more direct method of cultivating a broader spirit of nationality among the children of the country, based upon the Declaration of Independence and the principles of universal liberty and equal rights inculcated therein: Therefore, Resolved, That the National Woman's Council

The Woman's Relief Corps was most cordially welcomed into the National Council of women by the Executive Officers, May Wright Sewall, President; Rachel Foster Avery, Corresponding Secretary; Isabella Charles Davis, Recording Secretary; Lillian M. N. Stevens, Treasurer. They are magnificent women, broad, wise, patriotic and in full touch with the times.

A vote of thanks, on motion of National President Mink, was extended them, particularly recognizing the great services of Mesdames Sewall and Avery in World's Fair work.

THE HOME BUILDINGS. The Home buildings embrace two main quarters for men, with a capacity of 75 men each; a hospital, Commandant's residence, office, three cottages, laundry, barn, workshop, storeroom, boiler-house, etc. They are situated on the south fork of the Puvallup River, the nearest point being about one mile from Orting, whose citizens donated the ground, 183 acres

About 40 acres of land are cleared, of which 12 acres are in garden and small-fruits, 10 acres in hops, four acres in hay, and 14 in lawn, orchards, yards, etc. The total expenditures in establishing the Home were $29,878.02. Complaint has been made that the Home in a flat, uninteresting country, and that a site

The veteraus receive all the comforts of a well-ordered home, and to some it is the most luxurious home they have ever had; while the sick and suffering receive from Mrs. Street all the care and attention a mother or sister could give. She is never too weary to minister to their needs." The Relief Corps have shown an unfailing interest in the Home, and have contributed many comforts and delicacies. Last Christmas, on call of the President, a collection of books was made, and they are making an effort to build up a library.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

When Lizzie S. Herrick was Department President, she made a call for a piano fund. The Corps gave nobly, and the piano is now in the Home. Among the notable contributions was $25 from A. Lincoln Corps, 5, a small Corps at Walla Walla, and $100 from Stevens Corps, Seattle.

MERITED COMMENDATION.

Department President Jennie S. Holmes, in recent general order, promulgates resolutions of thanks forwarded the Department by the inmates and Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' Home, which were coupled with an urgent request to Relief Corps workers to make frequent visits to the Home. The following is from the resolutions passed by the inmates, on New Year's Day, 1894:

"The meeting was organized, a Chairman was called to preside, and a comrade explained the sense of the meeting in the following words, which were for the purpose of expressing the thanks and gratitude of the members of the Home to the Woman's Relief Corps of the Department of Washington, for the munificent donations made by them to the Home for the comfort of those who are so unfortunate as to be inmates therein. Also for the sympathy, watchfulness, and care ever manifested toward those who compose the Home family, such as richly and elaborately furnishing cottages and rooms in and belonging to the Home, and for presenting to the Home a fine, costly piano, 16th Ohio battery; Jerry Simpson, Co. If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to subdue attacks of dangerous diseases. That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indirection. stipation, piles and indigestion.

G.A.R. CHAPLAINS.

Status and Progress of a Noble Band of Christian Workers-Memorial Day Symposium.

[Address all communications for this column to Editor Chapiains' Department, The National TRIBUNE.

The following letters are worthy of careful study. In a recent letter from the Chaplainin-Chief is this:

"We have adopted a uniform blank for Chaplains' reports for Memorial Day, and hope given; Thomas Reginald Stockdale, Quit- by this to get a more general and uniform report from each Chaplain." IOWA LETTER. I somehow feel that Memorial Day ought to be an unusually sacred one to this Nation, and of the people who observe it forget the exact Missouri-William Henry Hatch, Captain, purpose of the day. It should not be a holiday in the popular sense of that word. It should be of such a sacred character that popular games of baseball, shooting-matches, horse racing, regattas, etc., ad libitum, should not be encouraged. That which inspired Gen. Logan and others to suggest the day, namely, the sacrifices day in all the year for a profuse display of Old I think that G.A.R. should propose and direct, but let Sons of Veterans and citizens be very active, so that when the "old boys" are in line on the other shore there may be left a spirit and habit in the people that will sacredly

PENNSYLVANIA LETTER. I think we ought to ask all newspapers to help us to make Memorial Day a sacred day, and not a day of games. This is not doing us any good in this section. The young people are not taught to respect the day as they ought. Baseball and all such things take our young men. I have sometimes wondered whether it perpetuate the customs that teach love to God

I believe my Post ought to go to some church on the Sabbath preceding Memorial Day. In this Department I believe this is generally done. We also have special Memorial services either in the Post-room or some church for comrades who have died during the year. This is one of the most solemn services in our Department, The oration on the 20th of May ought to be in a public place under roof. It ought to be a because he is known to be in thorough symgood talker .- J. H. SAYERS, Department Chap-SUGGESTIONS. Last year Rev. Henry Crocker, Chaplain of the Vermont Department, sent a request before Memorial Day to all the papers in the State to send him the issue of the paper containing account of Memorial exercises. Nearly all cheerfully did so. He then arranged their extracts and presented them to the Department Encampment with his report, and all were published in the Proceedings of the Annual Encampment. Thus they are kept as permanent record, and will be very valuable in the future. This method preserves the religious and Memorial side of the G.A.R. in a very pleasing way. Would it not be well for all Department two Lieutenant-Colonels, five Colonels, three Chaplains to follow out the same or a similar plan? Chaplains should begin at once, if not already begun, to agitate for an enthusiastic observance of the Memorial Days, not only in his own town, city or village, but also in every adjacent community. The question of how to meet the expense of Memorial services sometimes is a serious one. This has been solved in many places by asking the authorities to appropriate an amount sufficient to cover this expense. In but few cases have Posts met with refusal of requests. The community can make no better investment than in supporting their efforts to teach patriotism through these Memorial exercises. One of the successful ways to stir up interest in these Memorial exercises is for the Chaplain or some other good person to write up a rousing appeal for the local papers just before Memorial Day. Try it, Chaplains, and be sure to ask the people not only to observe the day themselves, ut to frown upon any efforts to desecrate the day with sports, races, etc.
